CITY INTELLIGENCE. THE TTALIAN OPERA.

VERTABLE PRODUCTIONS OF THE NORTHWEST.—The correspondent of the Baltimore Sun mentions that at the agricultural division of the Patent Office. Mr. Bitchle, from the head of Lake Superior, recently presented for inspection some of the finest specimens of vegetables ever exhibited here. Mr. R. has travelled two thousand miles for that purpose, as well as to visit the agricultural fair now in progress at Richmond, Virginia. These rural curiosities consist of a turnip, Tankard variety, which weighs fourteen pounds; one of ten, the whole of which weighed 129 pounds. Several specimens of the Irish potato, from 1 to 1½ pounds each. Also, varieties of Indian corn, proving the fact conclusively that corn can be raised in that climate well for sustaining stock. Tobacco leaf over twenty-four inches. Specimens of wheat larger Notwithstanding the unpleasantness of the weather last night, a brilliant and fashionable andience greeted the first appearance of Madame Colson in this city. She sustained the difficult rôle of Violetta, in "La Traviata." in a manner which completely satisfied the expectations of the audience, and was repeatedly greeted with the most enthusiastic applause. She possesses all the requisites for a Prima Donua. Not only does she come before her hearers with the prestige of great personal charms, but and is singularly gifted by nature with a voice pure and melodious as the song-birds of evening, and is also a remarkably fascinating and finished actress. Her portraiture of ably fascinating and finished actress. Her portraiture of than ever before presented here. Beans and peas—barthan ever before presented here. They were raised in Signors Brignoli and Amodio sustained their parts well. Brignoli's singing is at superior to his acting. In the first act, the drinking song "Libiamo, Libiamo," was encored, and at the end of the act Madame Colson was twice called before the curtain—a compliment seldom paid to a vocalist. The duet in the second act between Violetta and Germont, "Dite alla Giovane," was much almired, and several other beautiful passages were rapturously applauded. On the whole, the performance was one which will long be remembered by all who were present—the chorus and the orchestral accompaniment Capitol. It is described by those who have seen it to be unsurpassed as a work of art by any bronze castings in this country. The designs upon it symbolize our national productions—agricultural, horticultural, ornithological, and animal, not excepting a few plump little specimens of the human species. The work is now nearly complete, and will probably be placed in its destined position before being excellent, as well as the singing of the leading artists. The citizens of Washington are under renewed obligations to the management of this theatre for having placed within their reach such a rare treat as the Opera Company of M. Strakosch affords. To-night this company are to appear for the last time in this city; and the aunouncement that Madame Cora de Wilherst, who is confessedly the greatest living Amer-ican Prima Donna, will appear in her celebrated rôle of Elvira, in Bellini's favorite opera "I Puritani," will be who is well known to most of our citizens, is to have sufficient to fill the theatre to its utmost capacity. Mons. charge of this church when completed. Junca, the eminent basso, will take the character of Sir George Walton; Amodio appears as Sir Richard Forth, Signor Labocetta (tenor) as Lord Arthur Talbot, Signor Barilli (barytone) as Lord Walter Walton, and Signora Sapucci as Henrietta. The action of this opera is sup-posed to have taken place during the civil wars of England, when the armies of Charles the Second and his Parliament were arrayed against each other. The scene is laid at Plymouth, then in the possession of the parliamentary forces. Elvira, the daughter of Lord Walton, the governor of the fortress, is in love with Lord Arthur Taibot, a cavalier in the service of the King. Her hand, how-ever, had previously been promised to Sir Richard Forth, a Puritan, and colonel in the parliamentary army. Oppressed with grief, the maiden supposes her doom is sealed, when, to her great joy, Sir George Walton, brother a Puritan, and colonel in the parliamentary army. Oppressed with grief, the maiden supposes her doom is sealed, when, to her great joy, Sir George Walton, brother to the governor, brings her word that through his intercession her father had relented, and that Arthur was to be admitted into the fortress, that their nuptials might be celebrated with due splendor. Henrictta, widow of Charles the First, is at this time a prisoner in the could Charles the First, is at this time a prisoner in the castle Charles the First, is at this time a prisoner in the castle | N.J | John L Gray & family, Virginia at Plymouth, and has recently been sentenced to death | The S Dawson & lady, do by the Parliament. Arthur discovers her quality and distressed situation; and when Elvira, in a fit of playfulness, throws her bridal veil over the Queen, the thought occurs to him that under that disguise he may be able to convey her out of the castle, and thus save her life.

Neglecting his betrothed, therefore, he sacrifices his love to his loyalty. In the act of leaving the castle with the Queen thus disguised, he encounters his rival, who endeavors to prevent his exit; but, on discovering that his companion is: the Queen and not Elvira, he suffers them to depart. The escape of the royal prisoner is soon discovered, and directions are issued for pursuit. Elvira, believing herself forsaken by her lover, becomes delirious. During the second act, the madness of Elvira continues. Arthur is proscribed by the Parliament and sentenced to death. ### CTRCUIT COURT

Within the past two days a large number of appeal cases have been decided, few of which possess any interest for the general reader. The case of Humphreys & Juenemann w. corporation of Washington, which was dethe department of Texas will be increased by troops sent cided on Thursday, involves questions in which many of from Governor's Island, in view of the present Indian our citizens (especially those who are found of leger) are somewhat interested, and therefore deserves a passing notice. The contreversy originated in the fact that some two years ago a German named Rotzel was fined for selling lager beer without license, and appealed from the magistrate's decision to the circuit court. The appellant's attorney, Mr. Morgan, took the ground, in his argument, that lager beer was not an intoxicating drink and that, therefore, there was no law to fine Rotzel ; and after hearing the evidence, which was very full, the court o decided. The corporation, in order to meet this de cision, passed a law, in which lager beer was made li censable ; under which law, Messrs. Humpheys & Juene nann, who are manufacturers of lager beer, were twice fined, they having refused to take out a license. Severa grounds were taken by their counsel in these cases, one of which was that the warrants were defective on their faces—a ground in which the court assented. But it was agreed at bar, for the purpose of testing the question raised by appellant's counsel—namely, whether the corporation had any right to impose license on the manufacturers—that one of the warrants should be amended After considerable argument upon the warrant, as amended, the court held that the amended city charter of 1848 was no restriction or alteration of the charter of 1820, but gave additional powers, and that the corporation had the right to impose a license upon the manufacture of every and any kind of article, if the same be sold in this city.

The court has also had under consideration the appearance. case of Henry Rackaway ex. R. H. Trunnell, in which the judgment of the magistrate-H. Reaver-was reversed, and judgment de novo entered for the plaintiff for $47 58 and costs. In this case it appeared, from the evidence, that Rackaway intrusted a judgment for collection to Trunnell, who is a constable, and soon afterwards found that the judgment had been paid, and was in the possession of the original defendant, regularly satisfied. The defence was that Mr. King, another constable, collected the judgment, and "satisfied" it, and that Trunnell not having received any portion of the amount, was not liable. It was also alleged for the defence, that it was a case of malfeasance, and that the proper action should have been against the bondsmen of Trunnell. The court decided that King acted as the agent of Trunnell, and that the latter was responsible, and accordingly gave judgment as above. F. W. Jones for appellant, Robert

NEW SYSTEM OF INSTRUCTION IN DAN-A NEW SYSTEM OF INSTRUCTION IN DANcing.—Prof. Krause respectfully notifies the citizens of Washington that he is prepared to form a class (other young or otherwise) for instruction in dancing.

His system is one which, upon trial, will be found, although novel, so based upon mathematical rules as to insure to every pupil such a knowledge of the science as will enable them to become proficients therein in TWELTE 12880NS. This is the age of progress, and, startling as it may appear, he challenges a test, and fiels confident that the success of the past in California and other places is a sure guarantee that every pupil who will take instruction from him will had with joy the opportunity afforded of becoming proficient in less time thats is usually employed to acquire even the knowledge of placing the feet correctly.

He can be consulted daily at Carusi's Daucing Saloon, under the Theatre, from 8 to 9, a. m., and 1 to 2, p. m., and 4 to 5, p. m., where his terms and the fullest information will be given.
